THE UNIQUENESS RAJA AMPAT INDONESIA

Raja Ampat, or the Four Kings, is an archipelago comprising over 1,500 small islands, cays, and shoals in the northwest tip of Bird's Head Peninsula on the island of New Guinea, off the northeastern coast of Indonesia's West Papua province. The archipelago's four main islands are Misool, Salawati, Batanta, and Waigeo, and the smaller island of Kofiau. The name of Raja Ampat comes from local mythology that tells about a woman who finds seven eggs. Four of the seven eggs hatch and become kings that occupy four of Raja Ampat biggest islands whilst the other three become a ghost, a woman, and a stone.

Raja Ampat also known as "Underwater Paradise on Earth" because its area contains the highest recorded diversity of marine life on Earth, according to Conservation International. Diversity is considerably greater than any other area sampled in the Coral Triangle composed of Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, Papua New Guinea, Solomon Islands, and East Timor. Located at the heart of the world's coral reef biodiversity, Raja Ampat possesses the richest coral reef ecosystems in the world. Based on various studies by the world natural conservation agencies like Conservation International and Nature Conservancy, Raja Ampat waters were estimated to have 1397 fish species. It is not mistaken that the waters of Raja Ampat is also called "Capital for Fish in the World".

The abundance of natural resources of Raja Ampat archipelago lies not only found in its waters but also on its land. The land contour without mount or mountains exceeding 1000 meter above the sea level makes the forest in the lands of Raja Ampat lowland forest. The diversity of wildlife living in the forests of Raja Ampat is extraordinarily rich. The conservation of wildlife habitats is protected in the nature reserve. In addition, the forests of Raja Ampat are also paradise for numerous protected rare birds such as yellow-crested white cockatoo bird (Cacatua galerita), forest kingfisher (Halcyon macleayii), and julang Irian (Aceros plicatus).

Raja Ampat as part of the West Papua province in island of Papua, is rich of various music, dance and exotic crafting arts of Papua. Each tribe distributed in many islands of Raja Ampat usually has its own dances and custom ways. The common characteristics of the dance and music of Raja

Ampat is lively dancing movement and accompanied by typical percussive instruments of Papua named Tifa, gong (mambokon) and drums (bakulu).

Geographical location in the archipelago equator makes Raja Ampat archipelago a humid and hot tropical island. Sunny weather with blue or cloudy white skies is a common weather lasting almost along the year. The time before until the sunset is the best moment until the moment before sunrise is the best time to capture the nature of Raja Ampat. In this range of time Raja Ampat will present the scenic view no word can describe.

THE HEAD OF ADMINISTRATIVE FUNCTION'S NOTE

Greetings readers!

I am very pleased to share that, over my tenure of overseeing the publication of the newsletter so far, this edition's call for the contribution of articles has been one of those that was very positive.

Having said that, I wish to convey my sincerest appreciation to all those who have taken their time and effort to write up their articles and submitted them. It is unfortunate, however, that we are unable to include all of them in this edition. Nonetheless, I have personally earmarked them to be included in the next edition.

In this premiere edition of 2015, the Administrative Function is pleased to share exciting updates on ASEANSAT activities. The highlight among these activities is the ASEANSAT Assembly Meeting which was recently held in February in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. This meeting included reports from the ASEANSAT Secretariat Function, Training Committee and the Strategic Planning Committee as well as the seeking of consensus from the Assembly on the proposal on the Strengthening of ASEANSAT Secretariat and the Asian Development Bank's Proposal on Regional Technical Assistance (RETA) for ASEANSAT.

Other ASEANSAT activities included in this article are the Donor Cooperation Meeting which was convened a day prior to the ASEANSAT Assembly Meeting to coordinate and obtain clarification on donors' roles in their cooperation with ASEANSAT, and the Strategic Planning Committee Meeting on "Communicating the ASEANSAT Monitoring System" held in January in Jakarta, Indonesia to discuss on the dissemination and application of the monitoring system.

Also included in this newsletter are the XII ASOSAT Assembly and the 6th ASOSAT Symposium which were hosted by one of our fellow ASEANSAT members, the National Audit Department of Malaysia. In the former, we get to read the Chairman of ASEANSAT, Mr. Matali bin Haji Md. Yusof's report on the activities of ASEANSAT before the ASOSAT Assembly in which he emphasized ASEANSAT's commitment to close cooperation with ASOSAT. The latter, on the other hand, was a symposium on the theme of "Leveraging technology to enhance audit quality and effectiveness" which provided a platform for the attendees to explore the opportunities to leverage the use of technology in auditing and identify new auditing tools.

Additionally, there is also an article submitted by Badan Pemeriksa Keuangan, Republik Indonesia on His Excellency Dr. Harry Azhar Azis' proposal for Malaysia's Razak School of Government to initiate an ASEAN Auditors' Group to conduct an audit on ASEAN's programs.

Finally, as per the customary practice, we have included a Uniqueness column on Raja Ampat for your reading leisure.

I personally hope you will enjoy reading this edition of the newsletter. As I have previously iterated, I kindly invite all members to submit their articles to make the newsletter an even more enriching reading experience.

Before I end my note for this newsletter, I also would like to take this opportunity to personally congratulate His Excellency Tan Sri Dato' Setia Ambrin bin Buang and the National Audit Department of Malaysia for successfully hosting the recent XIII ASOSAT Assembly and for being elected as Chair of ASOSAT.

PROPOSAL FOR MALAYSIA'S RSOG TO INITIATE ASEAN AUDITORS GROUP

PUTRAJAYA, Feb 12 2015 (Bernama) — Indonesia's Audit Board chairman, Harry Azhar Azis has proposed that Malaysia's Razak School of Government (RSOG) initiate grouping auditors from ASEAN countries to make an audit on the success rate of ASEAN's programmes.

He said the RSOG could lead the initiative since Malaysia was now the chairman of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN).

"Accountability becomes a major topic as it could reflect on how the government manages its resources in the most efficient and effective way to increase public welfare. "In this context, accountability will smoothen the path of the countries in implementing the measures stated within the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC) blueprint in order to achieve the ASEAN Community."

Harry said this at a seminar entitled, 'ASEAN Community - The Role of Public Accountability', at the RSOG, here, today. The seminar was attended by the diplomatic community, public sector officers, ASEAN secretariat committee members and academicians.

He said ASEANSAT was established in 2011 with the aim of building capacity and promoting cooperation and understanding among members in the field of public sector auditing so as to strengthen the audit institutions.

He said the idea of the establishment of ASEANSAT was to encourage and promote good governance within the ASEAN region. Harry said ASEAN would come to a new era and reach a major milestone with the formation of the ASEAN Community this year.

Malaysia is the chairman of ASEAN this year and Kuala Lumpur is expected to host the launch of the ASEAN Community by Dec 31.
